Come and See

I saw the family of four standing in the hallway, looking a bit lost and confused. They were first-time visitors to our congregation and asked me for directions to Bible class. Rather than try to tell them where to find each of their classes, I simply responded, "Come with me, and I'll show you." Sometimes it's easier to show than to tell.

In the process of taking them to class, I discovered some other benefits as well. By going with them, we had time to get better acquainted, and I was able to introduce them to others along the way. By the time we reached their destination, they seemed to feel welcomed, and I had some new friends.

In John 1:35-42, two men heard Jesus referred to as the Lamb of God and decided to investigate further. They approached Him and asked where He was staying. Rather than give directions, He invited them to, "Come and see." So they joined Him, ended up spending the day with Him, and then brought others to Him with the same "come and see" approach. That brief journey together developed into a lifelong, lifechanging relationship.

So when we come across people who are searching for direction in their life, instead of telling them where they need to go, perhaps we should invite them to come along with us and introduce them to the Savior ourselves. Who knows what will come from that brief journey together to meet the Lord.
