A Candle in the Night

If a burning candle is placed in a brightly lit room, a person may only fleetingly notice its presence. But if all the other lights in the room are extinguished, the flame of the candle quickly becomes the focal point above all else in the darkness. In the same way, the reflection of God’s light within us is magnified when it is seen against the dark backdrop of adversity and hardship in our lives.

In 1 Peter 1:3-7, Peter says that trials of all kinds come our way so that our faith may be proved genuine and bring glory and honor to the Lord. When people observe in us a sense of strength and peace in the midst of anxious, uncertain times, they take notice and long for the ability to face life with that same kind of hope. At that point the stage is set for us to share our faith in God and what He has done in our lives.

So determine now to radiate the light of Christ – in good times and bad. Who knows what great things He will be able to accomplish through your trust and reflection of Him!
