Craving Pure Milk

*Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness,
for they will be filled.*

Matthew 5:6

As a young girl growing up on a farm, I had numerous opportunities to bottle-feed orphaned calves. I would mix the powdered milk with water in a two-quart calf bottle, then head out to the cattle pen, calling the calf's name as I went. Sometimes, if I didn't get out there quick enough, the calf would call for me, bawling incessantly until I (or rather the bottle) came into view. Either way, it never failed – the calf would come running to meet me at the fence and drain the bottle dry in a matter of minutes, sucking with surprising force and almost pulling the bottle from my hands in its zeal for the milk.

These are the images that come to mind as I contemplate the words of 1 Peter 2:2-3. "Like newborn babies, long for the pure milk of the word..." (NASB). "Cry out for this nourishment..." (NLT). Do we crave the wisdom and presence of the Lord with the same passion as that of those young calves gulping down the life-giving flow of milk from the bottle? There is no good reason not to because we have all experienced more than just a taste of the Lord's kindness in our lives.

Jan Knox
